From September 29–30, 1941, 33,000 Jews were killed at Babyn Yar. That is genocide.

The Supreme Court is allowing the Trump administration to send people back to countries that are not their own. I guess taking the money for self-deportation is starting to look better and better.

On a Flydubai flight between Dubai and Israel, one pilot tried to crash the plane. A second flight crew and the passengers stopped him. We will need more details. It was reminiscent of the flight in Pennsylvania on 9/11, except this time a major disaster was prevented by UAE pilots and Israeli civilians.

Seattle will have the highest minimum wage in the country at $22.14 an hour in 2027. Businesses are closing left and right.

People ages 50–64 are the only group drinking more. Heavy drinking increased by more than 36%.

In a bold move, Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps is appealing directly to American voters to get rid of Donald Trump and pressure Washington to end the war. I hope they signed it, "Death to America."

The illegal alien arrested and shot by ICE has now been charged with assaulting an officer with a vehicle. But his supporters will tell us what a good family man he is.

The New York Times headline will read: "Israelis Attack Muslim Pilot."

Public service announcement: One of my clients just died in a car accident. His son called me, asking whether there was life insurance on his Medicare Advantage plan. There is none. This is just a reminder: Please have burial insurance to cover end-of-life issues. You can call me or get it from anyone, but please get it.

"In Israel, in order to be a realist, you must believe in miracles." —David Ben-Gurion

You heard about the walkout during Netanyahu's speech. It was a camera trick. One hundred twenty countries stayed—two-thirds of the world. Mostly, the Caribbean countries that don't listen to speeches walked out. That's the truth.

Did you know that rather than kill the co-pilot for trying to stab the captain, the Israelis gave him first aid? They want him to be interrogated by Mossad. If Iran is found to be involved, there may not be an Iran in a few days.

A few short years ago, the Saudis would not have allowed the plane to land. Not only did they allow it to land, but they gave aid to everyone on the plane. This is a result of Donald Trump's first trip as president, during his first term. This man is transforming the world in a manner that no other president could.

Sixty-six percent of Democratic women between 18 and 29 believe that men are the reason for all their problems.

Whether it's July 1, when hospitals get their new residents, or October 1, when insurance companies put new trainees on the phone to answer Medicare questions, it is maddening. You are talking to people who know less than you do because they know nothing. In a few weeks, they'll be okay. They will know where the bathroom is. But talking to these people when you're an experienced person drives you crazy.

There's a lot online about unprocessed minors in immigration court. The fact is that it's a one-way court. They're getting deported, either voluntarily or through a removal order. Those are the options in immigration court if you're illegal. It's really simple—unless you want to change the law, and no one wants to change the law.

Another public service announcement, especially in Florida: I'm hearing a lot of reports of lightning strikes near people's houses knocking out TVs, satellite dishes, etc. This happened to me. I lost a laptop and a TV. Getting an uninterruptible power supply for $60 is cheap insurance. I highly recommend it.

Some airlines have incorporated new premium seats. They let you sit next to an Israeli for extra security.

For the first time this millennium, a full year passed without a single rocket being fired into Israel from Gaza.

France is burning. This time, it's the students.

I heard from the media that JD Vance's event in Lakeland was totally empty. I heard from a vendor of Republican supplies that he should have been at the Lakeland event because it was packed. That is the state of America today.

It is amazing how the global media have conspired to describe the failed hijacking attempt as a "cockpit altercation." Nothing about the brave Israelis.

Minnesota passed a law preventing AI from creating intimate body parts. A federal appeals court has blocked that law and, in my opinion, rightfully so. It infringes on the First Amendment. There would be no reason to have children involved in pornography if AI could do the same thing and children did not get hurt.

What happens when AI is combined with robotics and you can basically create an individual who's almost real —perhaps, in some ways, better? Will this be the end of the human race?

Why go to church on a regular basis? You will have more sex. A study comparing churchgoers and non-churchgoers found that 62% of churchgoers were satisfied with their sexual frequency, compared with only 48% of non-churchgoers.

Trump's October election strategy is becoming clear: Send money back to the average American. Twenty million Medicare enrollees are being paid back for some of the Part B overcharges from a fund the Democrats used for other purposes. Then the accounts for children will be funded in October. Then a million people on Obamacare are getting refund checks for Obamacare overcharges. Each of these checks will come with a personal letter from Donald Trump. I think this could be worth a few points in the polls.

We've heard a lot about people getting deported to third-party countries. These are cases where their own countries will not take them back, or where the immigrants cannot return because they would be raped or face something else. One thing is sure: They broke the law in the United States, so they'll go somewhere else.

The $90 Medicare beneficiary rebate check: I can't find anywhere that says it, but in my estimation, Medicare Advantage beneficiaries will not get it. Let's see if I am right.

I went to the Republican Victory dinner in Orlando. It is a lesson in how not to put on a dinner. The buses left the hotel for the convention destination around 6:15–6:30. The event started at 7:00 and was over at 9:00—the usual three-course chicken dinner. Then, at 9:00, they pushed you back onto the buses to return to the hotel. No schmoozing time. And that is what people come to these events for: the schmooze factor. The hotel lobby is so noisy, with no seating or anything, that it sounds like a jet engine taking off. There's no opportunity for anyone to talk. People, when planning your events, do not do this. People need time to schmooze. That's why we come to these places, not for the cheap chicken dinner.

The polls will make the Florida Senate and governor's races look close, but there are huge differences in how much money the candidates have available. It's not even close.

Only 31% of Americans think college degrees are important. This is a turning point.

Bernie Sanders went from wanting a $15 minimum wage to now wanting a $24 minimum wage. At $15, you didn't really pay any taxes. At $24, you'll pay a lot of income tax. So the politicians get richer, and you still can't buy a Big Mac and a drink because the price has quadrupled while your salary has not.

Brazil counted 100 million votes, with hundreds, if not more, candidates, in two hours. California takes over a month to count 15 million.

One of the problems Trump has is that he makes so many promises that people don't take him seriously. His $5,000 check to all working people—do people think that's happening? These midterms will tell us what people are thinking.

Six thousand terrorists and civilians attacked Israel on October 7, 2023. Four thousand are now dead. The other 2,000 are not long for this life.
