Do I think Marco Rubio should resign and run for president? YES, but Trump will have a hard time getting him replaced through the Senate. He needs to decide if he really wants to run ?

Vance Is in trouble. He is saddled with being Trump's VP. Although TDS is not contagious, he will spend a lot of time trying to show he's different from Trump. I would hope that the base would not blindly follow Trump's endorsements, as he's had a lousy track record.

I used to be a big fan of the VP, thinking he's very smart, but his advisors are proving he's not. Either he gets new advisors or the base will desert him.

The one thing about the scenario of approving people before January 1, pre-supposes that the people in the Republican Party who have lost their seats don't hold Trump responsible. It's possible they're so angry at Trump, that they won't do anything to help him.

I said the Republicans had to do three things in unison, and they did not do it. Talk about no tax on tips, Social Security, and overtime. Explain the Iran war, and talk about Biden's inflation. I didn't see any commercials like that.

Suggestion for bipartisan laws: Sanctuary cities are illegal. In return, immigrants who do everything right and have ties to the United States can be permitted to remain in the United States with conditions.

It is easier to lead and obstruct from the minority than to govern in the majority.

If the U.S. cuts the aid to Israel, which they said they would do, they also have to cut similar aid to Jordan and Egypt.

Why did the Republicans lose? Because as soon as they won in 2024, I said they should give the Democrats three months to pass an amendment putting the filibuster into the Constitution, or the Republicans would do away with the filibuster. They did not do that.

Wednesday after the election, Schumer and Jeffries are talking, saying, "How in the world are we going to bring prices down? We have no plan."

As they do the in-depth analysis of the gerrymandering effects, they will learn that it probably cost them Republican seats. Don't change the playing field because you had a great election. In politics, things can change overnight.

A lot of talk about the Democrats getting rid of the filibuster. That will not happen. Why get rid of the filibuster only to have Trump veto it? If the Democrats end the filibuster, there won't be a filibuster when the Republicans take back the Senate with a Republican president in 2028. In other words, it's not happening.

How things change in politics. In 24 hours, Ron DeSantis went from being out of the running for president, to the leading contender to be president. As everyone knows, I love Ron DeSantis. He has governed Florida incredibly well. And his story is not wrapped up in Donald Trump.

An example of Trump Fatigue Syndrome: You mention a state, and he tells you, "It was a great state. I got so many votes there." You get tired of listening to him say that.

We elected Democrats 24 hours ago, and prices have not come down. What is wrong with them?

It may be easier to get deals done with Democrats in Congress. Why? Because the Democrat Party is still split. The only thing they agree on is that they hate Trump. Now you're going to have issues like funding ICE. Half of the people will want ICE defunded, and half of the people will want ICE properly funded. Add that half to the Republican votes, and legislation passes. It will be interesting.

Did the Republicans set themselves up for failure when they voted Kevin McCarthy out as Speaker?

Just to be clear, going into Iran did not cost the Republicans the election. It was the inaction in Iran. Either do it or don't do it, but don't play halfway. Nobody likes that.

The appeal of Trump's 34-count conviction will be heard today, Thursday, November 5, by the Appellate Division. This is going to be very interesting.

Vance put out a tweet essentially blaming Israel for why the Republicans lost. Maybe he's right, but then we should blame TikTok for spreading the lies.

I think JD may have lost the nomination. It's not the tweet. It's that the Trump endorsement will not be worth very much in 2028.

We had to get to the point where even the dumbest Republican understands that the Trump endorsement can be a kiss of death and stops listening to him.

Ron DeSantis may have saved Florida by putting in Proposition 3, the property tax reduction. This forced Republicans to the polls.

Can anybody tell me what the GOP message was? The Democrats' message was affordability and "We hate Trump."

DeSantis or Rubio? Both are very competent. But DeSantis can run on his own record as governor, which was the best in the history of Florida. Rubio has to be tied to Trump.

Where can I get a DeSantis 2028 button?

I think there was also a lot of MAGA Fatigue Syndrome. In a lot of places, in a lot of Republican executive committees, the MAGA crowd took over, and a number of normal people left. My REC is down by half, and I understand a lot of them are down across the country. We also have the largest Trump club in the nation. The outcome will be interesting.

How far behind is the government? The FAA is replacing floppy disks by 2028. You heard me right.

Maybe in Trump's final two years, the DOJ should go after the press. File civil suits against press organizations that conspire to hurt one party and boost the other party. So the question becomes whether the First Amendment gives the press the right to conspire against one political party.

I am sure that Elon Musk is working on building data centers in space. Why, because the Democrats bought into the Chinese argument that data centers are hurting the United States, we have to get them built, so we need alternatives. I do think that people should be given a choice. If their state is against data centers, they pay 10 times as much for data. And that should be advertised.

I understand articles that say, "Generated by AI, which can make mistakes." How about a disclaimer that says, "Run by a human, written by a human, and prone to error"?

Life expectancy for men is 76 years. For women, it is 81 years. Is it too late to transition?

Are liberals mad that rich people exist, or are they mad that they are not one of them?

During the election season, I did not find one Republican who explained Obamacare. I will say it one more time. $12,000 deductibles, is not health insurance with $1,000-a-month premiums per person. And it was Barack Obama who did this. Why can't the Republicans understand this simple fact?

During the campaign, was any Republican trying to explain why we were in Iran? No. We deserved what we received. A combination of being arrogant while at the same time doing nothing.

Meme of the Week:
My husband insisted he didn't need the GPS. Then he asked me to look up the address, find the highway, and tell him when to turn.

Bonus Meme of the Week:
My husband put the ice cream in the cart first. "What are you doing?" I asked. "Putting us on a timer."

Obamacare Open Enrollment is Here

Have questions?? Call us? We explain it so you understand it.

All over the country, most plans for Obamacare and Medicare got worse.

Doctors cost more. Hospitals cost more. Drugs cost more. We will go over all the alternatives,
